

Photovoltaic panel leasing scam case

Overview

The Legal Aid Society has filed a lawsuit against five companies in the residential solar panel business for using deceptive business practices, including misleading advertising, misrepresentations of cost, and fraud, to target seniors and homeowners in communities of color. In the past decade, the number of companies serving consumers has multiplied. At the same time, federal and state regulators have received an increase in consumer complaints about a small number of unscrupulous solar companies. And in many cases, consumers never received the solar panels they were promised. The scheme involves synthetic. Did a salesperson knock on your door and promise free rooftop solar panels at no cost to you?

Or say you'll never have to pay another electricity bill because government programs, grants, or rebates cover your solar installation?

It's likely a scam. While there are some government-funded solar programs, Andy Milz of Flitter Milz, a nationally recognized expert in solar panel finance fraud, was recently interviewed by NPR News for a nationally-aired report concluding — Rooftop solar has a fraud problem.
